Security within Evanced's new core applications (SignUp, Spaces, D!BS, and Wandoo Reader), as well as BrainHQ, consists of Users and Roles. Roles are created first and consist of granular permissions. Roles are then applied to users when new users are created. Roles are broken down by product. This allows you to grant a user a certain role for each product or no role for specific products if you do not wish to grant the user access to those products. Product-specific permissions are defined in the remainder of this article. To view a detailed breakdown that defines each individual permission please see our Managing Security in New Core Applications article. To review frequently asked questions about the new security process, please see Frequently Asked Questions: Managing Security
